Emergency Medical Contact & Student Health Advocates

Stevenson requires all students to have an emergency contact, so they have someone off campus who can act quickly on the parents' behalf in time-sensitive situations. For families who are not able to identify a local emergency contact, Stevenson will be partnering with Student Health Advocates (SHA), a professional service that has worked with over forty private boarding high schools across the country. The service provides a family with an emergency contact as a temporary adult authority for their boarding school student(s) in the event a student experiences a medical or mental health emergency, withdrawal, or any other situation that requires a student to access services off campus that fall outside the responsibilities of the school. An SHA membership provides access to emergency & support services in the event they are needed, acting as assurance for parents and the school during an emergency situation in which the parents/guardians are not immediately available.

Additionally, during this period of uncertainty resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic, SHA can provide the following services:

- organize medical quarantine after any COVID-19 exposure, or provide transportation and housing if a student is faced with an emergency campus closure and evacuation.
- For those students who are not vaccinated and must isolate off campus and receive a negative COVID-19 test prior to arriving to campus, SHA's emergency contact service can pick students up at the airport, provide them with a comfortable hotel with a chaperone, and arrange to get them their first COVID-19 vaccine.
- SHA can provide comfortable, supervised accommodation during vacations if it is not feasible for the student to travel home or they cannot find a host during a break when the school's resident halls are closed.
